RDO

TODA

hursd

tsan

EF

propriations for that site; on the other get in and work for that, you will find where, now, as at any time.

Mr. Huntington's chief supporters in that I can get this money for Santa bate that they were entirely prepared league to secure an appropriation for liquity of the proposed appropriation even for Mr. Frye. Mr. White's re-got find it to my advantage to have I the New York World pertinently asks this harbor built at San Pedro, and I regarding the matter—"is this a government by the people, for the people, and I ment by the people, for the people, or a government by Mr. Huntington? The question hand, the Santa Monica location will may as well be settled in the Santa Monica-San Pedro controversy as any-get in and work for that, it have me on your side, and I think I have me on your side, and I think I have some little influence at Washington, as some little influence at Washington, as Jones of Nevada, Dolph of Oregon and Jones of N At the very conclusion of the inter-iew, Mr. Huntington showed for the lina, who had unexpectedly changed first time his decided animus in the matter. He brought down his fist with much force on the desk where he sat, and said: "Well, I don't know, for sure, and said: "Well, I don't know, for Santa showed by their expressions in the de-league. The discouraging situation at site, and they were not to be turned | voived. His plea was for San Pedro, | peated taunts that he dared not refer Washington with regard to appropriate | aside by any form of argument or ap-Washington with regard to appropria-tions of every character induced the league to adopt a plan of action somewhat different from that which had been previously followed, viz: to ask for an appropriation for the inner harbor this year and, while reaffirming confidence in the outer harbor plan to defer all action until another year. This policy was probably a wise one, but the next move of the league which was to arrange a truce with the Huntington forces came very near being a fatal blunder and for which the league peal.

When the bill emerged from the com-mittee, it carried a majority and a minority report. The former was signed by the nine friends of Santa

The report merely states that a board

DEBATED FIVE DAYS

As the debate progressed, occupying almost the entire time of the Senate for five days of a busy session, a great Monica-San Pedro topic by the newspapers. The leading journals of the country discussed the issue editorially, had been appointed in 1891, which had country discussed the issue editorially reported in favor of San Pedro, and and it may be added that they were which had reported in unanimously on the San Pedro side ington forces came very near being a favor of San Pedro.

The minority report bore the names of six senators, including Senator Huntington's promise was secured not to interfere with the efforts of the league to secure an appropriation for inquity of the proposed appropriation.

If avor of San Pedro.

The minority report bore the names of the San Pedro side. Every day of the debate strengthened the San Pedro side.

the question to a competent unpreju-diced board struck home. The amend-ment as proposed by Senator White was finally accepted by the advocates of San Pedro.

REJOICING IN LOS ANGELES.

There was great rejoicing in Los Angeles when the news came of the passage of the river and harbor bill, containing the deep-water harbor appropriation, and the provision for the appointment of a board to designate where the work should be done. When Senator White returned home a few weeks later, a special train went out to meet him containing several hundred of his friends and admirers. The cars were decorated with flags and flowers, and as the train passed through the neighboring cities great crowds were gathered at the station to cheer the man who had made a brave fight for the people, for so it was regarded.

It might be well to add in this con-nection that when Senator Perkins visited Los Anegles some months later, although it was in the midst of a presi-dential campaign and his mission was dential campaign and his mission was to make a political speech on the Re-publican side, a similar reception was tendered him, and in this the Demo-crats were given a chance to reciprocate, and they accepted it handsomely.

THE FINAL STRUGGLE.

And now came the final struggle. The board provided for in the bill was appointed in October, 1896, with Rear Admiral John G. Walker as chairman, and the public sessions of the Walker board began at Los Angeles December

SALT LAKE STEPS IN.

The case for Santa Monica was ably presented by the engineers and repre-sentatives of the Southern Pacific. The sentatives of the Southern Pacific. The San Pedro case was under the management of the Free Harbor League and Mr. T. E. Gibbon, who represented the Terminal railroad. This State also took a hand in the struggle. The Salt Lake chamber of commerce passed resolutions in favor of San Pedro and sent Mr. C. O. Whittemore as the representative of Utah to appear before the Walker board and make an address in favor of San Pedro, which resolution was in part as follows:

at a meeting held this day unanimous-The Salt Lake chamber of commerce ly resolved to present to your com-mission on behalf of said city and the State of Utah the fact that this State is deeply interested in the proper loca-tion of the proposed deep-water harbor for Southern California, for the reason that our citizens are engaged in an effort to build a line of railroad to connect this city with Los Angeles and the proposed harbor. This rail-road, when completed, will be a through transcontinental line and will be the shortest line between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. In southern Utah alone, on the proposed line, and not more than 500 miles from tide water, occur vast deposits of iron ore fully equal in extent and quality to the great iron ranges of Michigan. Contiguous to these great iron deposits there exists coal measures of al-most unlimited extent. We expect to co-operate in the building of this line with the Los Angeles Terminal com-pany, and we are fully convinced that the construction of the road will be materially advanced, and, in fact, rendered certain by the location of this deep-water harbor at San Pedro.

The San Francisco Examiner of De-cember 24, 1896, in its report of the proceedings before the Walker board on the harbor contest has this to say about Utah's representative:
President Francis of the Harbor League then introduced Hon. Charles O. Whittemore, prosecuting attorney of Salt Lake, who appeared as a delegate from the chamber of commerce of that ctiy, to speak on the desire of the people of Utah to have San Pedro se-

Mr. Whittemore brought an exhilar-ating breeze of boominess from his State. He was brimful of development, iron and coal, and new railways, and spoke with so much spirit and good sense as to arouse interest throughout, and at the close was thanked by Ad-miral Walker for his address.

UTAH'S ATTITUDE.

After quoting from the resolutions of the Salt Lake chamber of commerce, Mr. Whitemore went on to say that the entire people of Utah favored San Pedro, and concluded a lengthy argument as follows: "When I say that the selection of San Pedro as a deep-water harbor will benefit the whole people of Southern California, Utah and Nevada, while the selection of Santa Monica will only inure to the advan-Monica will only inure to the advan-tage of a single corporation, I rpeak advisedly and propose to demonstrate the correctness of my statement. This contest is a battle being waged by the people on one side for San Pedro as against the Southern Pacific corpora-tion for Santa Monica on the other This must have become apparent al-ready to the members of this commission by the fact that no one except sion by the fact that no one except the agents, employes and servants of the Southern Pacific has either by word or deed espoused the cause of Santa Monica, while on the other hand it will be demonstrated to you as the hearing progresses that the people—not only of Southern California, but of the whole transmississippi country—are advocating the cause of country-are advocating the cause of "Utah's interest in the proposed har-our arises also from the fact that there bor arises also from the fact that there exist coal measures of almost unlimited extent within her borders. With opportunities for export—such, for instance, — arise on the completion of the Salt Lake and Los Angeles railroad and the establishment of a deep-water harbor in connection with the coal trade that will follow will be something enormous."

In conclusion Mr. Whittemore said: "Utah wants an opportunity to distribute throughout the world the mineral wealth that nature has supplied her with. She can only do this through a port such as it is hoped this commission will establish. We do not want to be placed at the mercy of the South sion will establish. We do not want to be placed at the mercy of the South-ern Pacific or of any other corporation. We do, however, want a harbor that will afford the people of our State an opportunity to enter into free and un-limited commercial relations with the transpacific countries. We are fully transpacific countries. We are fully convinced that San Pedro as a harbo will meet all these requirements, by that Santa Monica will afford us noth-

THE FIGHT WON.

The report of the Walker board was The report of the Walker board was filed March 1st, 1897, and was in favor of San Pedro as the location for a deep water harbor for commerce and deep water harbor for commerce and deep water harbor for commerce and of refuge in Southern California. When the work came to the people of Los Angeles that the board had reported in favor of the "Free Harbor," the glad tidlings were announced by the blowing of steam whistles. An impromptu celebration was indulged in. When the report of the Walker wade public it was thought When the report of the Walker board was made public it was thought board was made public it was thought that as soon as specifications were drawn up and advertised and a favorable bid received, the work would begin, yet it was not until April, 1899, a period of over two years that the first load of rocks was dumped into the breakwater. This delay was occasioned by Secretary Alger who, under first one pretext and another, refused. first one pretext and another, refused to advertise for bids until he was finally compelled by President McKin-ley to proceed with the work.

A GREAT CELEBRATION.

When the last doubt as to the actual When the last doubt as to the actual beginning of the work on San Pedro had died away, it was decided to hold a celebration of a suitable character to commemorate the conflict and the starting of the great enterprise. The jubilee was held April 26th and 27th. 1899. The first day's celebration was at San Pedro with speeches and a barbecue and on the second day a flower parade and other ceremonles took place in Los Angeles. The first load of rock for the breakwater was dumped rock for the breakwater was dumped from one of the barges into the ocean by President McKinley touching an electric button in his library in the White House. The contract for this great undertaking by the government calls for breakwater about 8,500 feet long. Th depth at mean low water along the site of the work varies from 24 to 52 feet. This will call for 2,290,000 long tons of stone. The amount of stone would fill 92,000 cars 3,680 trains. At a point twelve feet below low water the wall will be 90 feet wide and on top the wall will be 20 feet in width. In addition to Senator White, valuable and effective work in bringing this contest to a successful end was done by Senator Perkins, and by the representatives in Congress from Southern California during this time. In the long list of names of the prominent men of Los Angeles and Southern California who did such val-iant work in the great "Free Harbor" contest, it would be difficult to dis-tinguish the value of the services of one from another. They one and all deserve the everlasting gratitude of the people of the southern California California and of the Southwest. Special mention should be made, however, of the work done by Mr. T. Gibbon in this contest and also that of Mr. C. D. Willard, secretary of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. Mr. Gibbon's direct interest in the contest grew out of his position as attorney and vice president of the Terminal railway. Aside from this. however, his natural tastes and ten-dencies would have lined him up on the anti-monopoly side of the fight. To his indomitable perseverance and enerof opportunities the great victory was due more than to the work or influence of any other person. Next to Mr. Gibbon the most earnest and inde-Mr. Gibbon the most earnest and inde-fatigable worker was undoubtedly C. D. Willard, secretary of the chamber of commerce. Mr. Willard has prepared and published a brochure giving a most complete and interesting account of the "Free Harbor" contest. It is from Mr. Willard's publication that from Mr. Willard's publication that most of the information upon which this article is based was secured.

ARTISTIC JOB WORK

Turned out on short notice at the Descret News. A big shipment of new types and supplies just in. Our facilities for letter heads, bill heads, tags, envelopes, pads, etc., etc., are unexcelled by any establishment in the West.

SALT LAKE CITY & LOVE LOCKS EVADIA CARSON MARYSVALE CANDELARIA SANTA BARBARA LOS ANGELES

MAP SHOWING ONE OF TWO LINES THAT WILL BE CHOSEN FOR THE SAN PEDRO, LOS ANGELES & SALT LAKE RAILROAD.

This map shows the country between Salt Lake and Los Angeles, and indicates the two routes between which the new railroad company will undoubtedly make its choice. The two are indicated by the marks ---. At this time it is impossible to say which of the two routes has the preference, and probably the directors themselves are still undecided on this point. A conservative estimate would doubtless be that if the Oregon Short Line and the Utah and Pacific raliroads running from Leamington to Uvada, can be bought at a reasonable figure, they will be acquired by the new company, and the line continued southtwestward from the last named point. If no price can be agreed upon, the westerly route will be followed. This seems the more plausible, that it is 50 miles shorter than the other route, and it taps the Deep Creek country. The distance from Salt Lake to Los Angeles, according to the surveys, of each route, is as follows: By Leamington and Uvada, 800 miles. By Deep Creek and Pioche, 750 miles. Whichever route is chosen, it is likely that a spur will be built into the Iron Mountains, near Cedar City.

The strong utterances by Mr. Huntington and powerful influence of the Southern Pacific brought a division among the directors of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce which resulted in a vote of the entire membership of that body on April, 1894, and again the question of the harbor site was settled n favor of San Pedro by a vote of two

The legislature of California in 1893 elected Stephen M. White of Los Angeles to the Senate, the man who finally won the victory for San Pedro after one of the most extraordinary battles ever fought in the halls of Congress. The presence of Senator White on the Senate commerce committee deter-mined the friends of San Pedro to make an effort to get the San Pedro harbor appropriation into the river and harbor

In June a hearing on the San Pedro-Santa Monica question was given by the commerce committee of the Senate. The Los Angeles representatives prosented their case and were followed by Mr. Huntington who appeared in per-son, and asked that an appropriation million dollars be made for breakwater at port Los Angeles, (Santa Monica.) This request, strange as it may seem, was made in the face of the Peports by the two boards of engineers agatast Santa Monica and in favor of Sen Padro. The contest before the committee was prolonged for several weeks and it was not until the middle of July that a decision was reached to defer the matter until next year. At this time the eastern papers began to take the matter un ## take the matter up. THE COUNTRY INTERESTED.

A combat between the advocates of A combat between the advocates or rival sites for harbor improvement would naturally have but little interest for people removed from the immediate locality that was concerned; but here was an issue that involved questions of grave national importance. Should a grave national importance. Should a harbor be located in accordance with the judgment of the government engineers, based on thorough acquaintance with all the conditions, and in accord-ervation of any sort. Gorman of Maryland was a San Pedro man, who later switched to the other side. The other members of the committee were either absent or wavering. The result was a

Mr. Huntington's powerful influence s shown in the fact that four senators on this committee, as above stated, ex-pressed themselves as prepared to give Huntington the $4,000,000 he asked in spite of the decision of both boards of ngineers against it.

PERIOD OF DISCOURAGEMENT. The period of the greatest discourage ment for the advocates of San Pedro harbor came in the years 1894 and 1895, during the life of the Fifty-third Con-gress. The discovery which was made in July, 1894, that it was quite possible for Mr. Huntington to secure a ma-jority of the congressional committees favoring his plan, in spite of the de-cision of the engineers against it, stagered the free harbor workers, whose undamental doctrine had always been that whatever might be done for San Pedro, appropriations for the other place were out of the range of possi-bility. Nevertheless, this was a period of comparative unanimity of sentim n Los Angles. People understood that it would be a long slege, and they set-tied down to it philosophically.

The chamber of commerce sent no delegate to the second session of the Flifty-third Congress, which took place in the winter and spring of 1895. Mr. Gibbon, who paid a visit to Washington at the opening of the session, reported that nothing was to be expected. until a change was made in the personnel of the Senate commerce com-

The chamber of commerce had, by this time, grown to be a large concern with many and varied interests, and while it still remained faithful to the San Pedro idea, it could not be expected to do the active fighting.

FREE HARBOR LEAGUE. A new organization was accordingly formed, known as the Free Harbor League, having for its one and only ance with the wishes of the people of the section, and the demands of all their representatives; or upon the mere ipse dixit of one rich and powerful man, whose commercial interests required it in another place? Is this—as damned well that you shall never get a to give Mr. Huntington the $4,000,600 the inside harbor at San Pedro, but for which he asked. Cullom of Illinois, Berry of Arkansas, and White of Callfornia, were for San Pedro without respect to the inside harbor at San Pedro, but there was no promise on Mr. Hunting-reasons why, if the money was to be spent, it should go to San Pedro.

When the item was reached in the spent is should go to San Pedro. utterly demoralized condition of public finances, the members of the league never dreamed that Mr. Huntington could break into the treasury for $3,-000,000 appropriation for Santa Monica and no stipulation on that point was ### ever suggested. DOUBLE APPROPRIATION.

While the proceedings before the committee on the river and harbor bill are supposed to be secret, nevertheless leaked out that Mr. Huntington had been before the Senate com-merce committee in person and while he did not oppose the small appropria-tion for San Pedro he put in a demand for $3,000,000 for Santa Monica. When Mr. Huntington's move was made known in Los Angeles the people were very much wrought up and publi neetings were held at which resolu tions were passed vigorously denouncing Mr. Huntington's action and protesting against the "double appropriation" scheme. Resolutions were adopted by the Free Harbor League which set forth that if so large a sum was available for deep water harbor improvement, then it should be applied to the outer harbor at San Pedro instead of to Mr. Huntington's private port at Santa Monica.

Owing to this opposition to the Santa Monica appropriation, friends of Mr. esting against the "double appropria-

Owing to this opposition to the Santa Monica appropriation, friends of Mr. Huntington in the House had both items struck out of the bill. Afterwards, when the bill came before the Senate commerce committee, nine members of the committee voted to restore the Santa Monica item of $3,-000.000 to the bill, and six voted against oss,000 to the bill, and six voted against it. Senator White fought manfully against this proceeding, but to no avail, argument was useless where votes were controlled by outside influences. At last, failing in his effort to divert the appropriation for a deep-sea harat last, failing in his effort to divert the appropriation for a deep-sea harbor from Santa Monica to San Pedro, Mr. White proposed that a new commission should be appointed, and that its action should be made absolutely final by the device of appropriating the money in advance to go to whichever place should receive the decision. He appealed to the sense of fairness, to the honor and decency of the majority to reasons why, if the money was to be spent, it should go to San Pedro. When the item was reached in the Senate, Mr. White offered an amendment, striking out the appropriation for Santa Monica and proposing in-stead the appropriation of $3,098,000 to go either to Santa Monica or to San Pedro, as might be decided by a special board of engineers, one of which board should be an officer of the United States navy, with a rank of not less than commander, to be appointed by the sec-retary of the navy, one a member of the corps of engineers of the United States army, to be selected by the sec retary of war, and one a member of the coast geodetic survey, to be selected by the superintendent of the survey.

SENATOR WHITE'S ARGUMENT.

In support of this amendment, Senator White made a most powerful argument, and one filled with scathing ebuke and invective against the in luences which were at work to thwart the will of the people. In referring to the $3,000,000 appropriation for Santa Monica, he spoke as follows:

"I wish to call the attention of the Senate to what I consider an extraordinary, feature of the case—a peculiar feature of the controversy. It is and would be in any instance rather singular that the Congress of the United States should find it necessary to make an appropriation of public money in the face of the desire of local representatives, and it is almost impossible that such a condition of things can ever exist unless there is some uncom-mon influence not usually applicable and not generally brought into exercise. Senator White, referring to the posttion of the advocates of Santa Monics in opposition to his amendment taunt ing them with unfairness, said: "They decline because—and there is no other deduction possible from their conduct they know that no impartial and competent tribunal will decide in their favor.'

The only speaker on the Santa Monica side was Senator Frye; his speech occupied the greater part of a day, and was an able presentation of an awkward case. Senator Berry followed Senator White

THE SAN PEDRO DEEP WATER HARBOR.

The accompanying half tone map gives an excellent view of Los Angeles and contiguous country, and especially of the San Pedro Deep Water Harbor, which will be the real terminus of the New Pacific Coast road from Utah. The Los Angeles Terminal ratiroad, which is nineteen miles long, and which is distinctly shown, is a part of the Utah-California enterprise, and affords the means by which the new road will reach the Pacific ocean. Those persons who have been laboring under the impression that Los Angeles was the destination are mistaken. Oriental trade through the medium of a new Pacific steamship line is the object sought for, and which is made comparatively easy through the splendid harbor facilities as above portrayed. For years the late Collis P. Huntington with all of his influence and wealth fought the proposition of deepening this harbor, but was finally defeated after a most momentous struggle. The breakwater in the outer harbor is being rapidly constructed by the United Stress government at a cost of about $2,000,000.